Master class

Recognised for its uncompromising dedication to quality in design and customer service, Kitchen Architecture has been crowned the UK's best showroom for kitchens

Report: Jackie Daly

First established in Oxford, and now boasting a second gorgeous showroom in London's trendy Putney, Kitchen Architecture was recently crowned the 2010 Master Retailer for Kitchens in the national bbk Industry Awards – the industry standard for retailing – and is also the UK's largest independent designer and retailer of Bulthaup kitchens.

Anyone visiting the new hotspot will find a beautifully arranged and inspirational venue lavishly organised over two floors. The stunning window display, showcasing the amazing b2 kitchen, is just a taste of things to come. Inside you'll find kitchen displays for every taste in layouts that are created to demonstrate an array of design possibilities. As a leading exponent of the trend towards open-plan living, you'll also get a real feel for how a kitchen should be designed seamlessly both in synergy with the architecture of your home and the surrounding space.

The Kitchen Architecture ethos is "to deliver a service that surpasses expectation" and, as such, customer service, product knowledge, technical understanding and project delivery is put at the top of the priority list. In fact, visitors are promised a warm welcome with designers – supported by coordinators – fully trained to Kitchen Architecture principles, and who in turn are overseen by a project manager, thus offering a smooth project from conception to completion.

As managing director Rob Gelling concludes, "We deliver effortlessly stylish kitchen-dining-living areas that exude confidence and offer perfection in flow, form and function." A definite must-visit for lovers of modern design and no-compromise quality!
